A screenshot of a "Flight Plan" dialog box. The window has a title bar with "X" and "Flight Plan" and a close button. The main area contains:

- "Departure ICAO" label followed by a text input field and "(ID)"
- "Enroute altitude" label followed by a numeric keypad (0-9) and a text input field containing "0 0,5 0 0", followed by "(ft)"
- "Arrival ICAO" label followed by a text input field and "(ID)"
- "Route" label followed by a long text input field
- "Cancel" and "File" buttons at the bottom

Enter your flight plan above. Leave "Departure ICAO" blank for popup clearances.
For the route you may enter realistic routes with NDB/VOR/FIXES as well as V/J airways.
SIDS/STARS are not allowed!

Make adjustments, close the airplane, open the sim, test the flight and the game goes back and forth.. See if it really could fly According to Andy Dies, this is a very impressive model with great detailed attention and a real effort to deliver a large project as accurately as possible.. It a cool set that contains a total of 225GB of scene data when you buy the all-in-one package, although you can purchase each volume separately if storage (and economy) is a problem.. However, I desperate to find a realistic traffic add-on as I think this is one of the most important add-ons to make a simulator realistic, though GA fly flies, which I almost always do tue.. Yes, you drove in the empty sky, so not on the airline, chosen independently of a runway, checked the weather without ATIS, allowed you to land at an empty airport, etc.
